Ji Hoon told me,
He used to go to the sea with his parents.
From what I recall, we never went anywhere together as a family.
Of course, we planned to go to the sea in the past, but my wife would change her mind at the last minute...
Did Ji Hoon say that himself?
Look... maybe...
Ji Hoon's symptoms are just...
Subdued by stress after losing Injeong...
First, listen to what Ji Hoon supposedly "remembered".
He was playing, and fell into the sea. He was running out of breath and thought he was going to die.
A large fish saved him. It had your face.
What does that mean?
Isn't there something that he wants you to know?
But there are some secrets which can never be told.
The trauma has come out in physical form.

On Friday, I will show you with the rest of the last chapter.

When I was writing the story, it only had five sentences, but now what's happened?!
Why?! Why did it get five times longer than a normal episode?!

This incurable illness, which I have suffered since I was an amateur, is acting up again...

I'm sorry to the readers and my agent.
Again, sorry..
